Acknowledgements

Ida Husted Harper has a secure place in American history for her contributions to the national and international woman's suffrage movement. It is our hope that this index to her first journalistic offerings will add new dimensions to those contributions and a fuller understanding and appreciation of Harper. These writings reveal the wide range of interests and people with which Harper was concerned during the years she wrote for the Saturday Evening Mail, the Locomotive Firemen's Magazine, and the Terre Haute Daily News. Harper found her voice as a journalist in Terre Haute. It was the voice of a young woman who was bright, independent, and who knew the value and importance of a sense of humor. This index will serve to aid the researcher in finding all this and much more.

Our thanks for support in this project goes to the Indiana Historical Society and the Indiana Committee for the Humanities for an Indiana Heritage Research Grant. The importance of the work of these organizations and the financial support they provide to local history projects cannot be overestimated. The Vigo County Public Library archives houses the Ida Husted Harper Terre Haute Collection and this institution (an institution which Harper played no small role in bringing into existence) has supported this project in large and small ways from its inception to its conclusion. The Eugene V. Debs Foundation graciously loaned original copies of the Locomotive Firemen's Magazine for photocopying.

Marilyn Bisch and Nancy Sherrill made important contributions to this project. Amy Martin Hamon and Mary Margaret Iacoli deserve special notice for their fine work in the compiling of this index.

GUIDE TO THE INDEX

SCOPE

This book is an index to Ida Husted Harper's articles which appeared in the Saturday Evening Mail (1872-1889), the Locomotive Firemen's Magazine (1883-1894), and the Terre Haute Daily News (February 1890-May 1890). It includes seventeen articles Harper wrote under the pseudonym "Mrs. John Smith."

A prolific writer, Harper published regular columns in the Saturday Evening Mail ("A Woman's Opinions") and the Locomotive Firemen's Magazine ("Woman's Department"), and as managing editor of the Daily News, she wrote short pieces for the editorial page. These contributions are comprehensively indexed in this volume. No attempt was made to index brief news items or correspondence from her readers which appeared in her columns.

This index is a companion to the Ida Husted Harper Collection housed in the Vigo County Public Library archives. All 388 articles in the collection have been indexed by subject and by name.

SUBJECT INDEX--Explanation of Headings

1) SUBJECT

The first half of this volume is a subject index to the Harper articles. The subject terms identify one or more major themes in each article and are arranged in alphabetical order. To maintain a sense of Harper's ideas and terminology, the subject terms were generated from the text as much as possible. "SEE" references are used to lead the user from a modern or alternate term to the actual term used in the index. For example, the term ALCOHOLISM gives the user the cross reference SEE: INTEMPERANCE.

Although broad terms are used to group articles with similar themes (e.g., WOMAN'S RIGHTS; POLITICS AND POLITICIANS), when possible specific terms are employed to convey a more descriptive sense of the articles (e.g., HOUSECLEANING, SPRING). The use of subheadings is employed occasionally to narrow the concept further (e.g., WISCONSIN-TRAVEL). Related terms are connected in the index by "SEE ALSO" references (e.g., CHURCHES... SEE ALSO: MINISTERS; RELIGION; WOMEN AND THE CHURCH).

2) TITLE

When an article has a title, it is listed in the index verbatim. If this column is left blank, then there was no title for that particular article.

Harper's regular Saturday Evening Mail column, "A Woman's Opinions," was often divided into several sections with separate "article titles" for each section. The index includes all separate article titles with their corresponding subject terms. For example, one "A Woman's Opinions" column may actually have three titles and as many or more subjects assigned to it.

As editor of the "Woman's Department" in the Locomotive Firemen's Magazine, Harper published a monthly article with its own title. Brief news items and letters to the editor which Harper selected for publication and edited are not included in the index.

3) PUBLICATION

The publication in which the article appeared is represented in this column in abbreviated form:

DN - Terre Haute Daily News

LFM - Firemen's Magazine (publication title before
January 1886)

Locomotive Firemen's Magazine (publication title
beginning January 1886)

SEM - Saturday Evening Mail

4) DATE

This column represents the date of the article:
year/month/day

5) PAGE

The inclusive pages of Harper's column or department are listed here.

NAME INDEX--Explanation of Headings

1) NAME

The second half of this volume is a name index to the Harper articles. Every name which appeared in the indexed articles is listed alphabetically by last name. Names appear exactly as written in the article, so often only last or incomplete names are listed in the index. No attempt was made to research individuals whose names were incomplete. However, in a few cases, a first name has been added between brackets to complete a name. Brackets have been used sparingly and only when the text itself assured the identity of the individual in the article (e.g., Debs, [Eugene V.]).

Brackets have also been used to extend names which were abbreviated in the article (e.g., Wm. would be listed as [William] in the index.)

If the copy of the article was in poor condition and the spelling of the name was not legible, a question mark will appear after the name in the index (e.g., Bloes (?)).

2) F_OF_ADDRESS

This column represents "Form of Address." If a form of address appeared in the article, this information is included in the name index to further identify the individual.

3) PUBLICATION

The publication in which the article appeared is represented in this column in abbreviated form:

- DN - Terre Haute Daily News
- LFM - Firemen's Magazine (publication title before
January 1886)
Locomotive Firemen's Magazine (publication title
beginning January 1886)
- SEM - Saturday Evening Mail

4) DATE
